The Client guarantees the existence of the credits and takes on the obligations provided for by the agreement.

The main risks include what follows:

- possible unfavorable changes in the economic conditions, as contractually provided;
- an increase in the interest rate in connection with the performance of the benchmark, when the transaction is a variable rate transaction;
- the presence in the agreement of a fixed minimum rate (the so-called floor rate), so that if the algebraic sum of the indexing parameter and the spread is lower than this floor rate, the interest rate cannot be lower than this floor rate in any case;
- the application of the over maturity rate in case of late payment.

MAXIMUM ECONOMIC CONDITIONS APPLICABLE
Fixed interest rate on extensions	D312	EXTENSION INTEREST RATE	6.00%
	D313	INTEREST RATE FOR LATE PAYMENT (OVERMATURITY)	4.00%
Indexed interest rate on extensions The interest rate is determined by the algebraic sum of the reference parameter and the contractually established spread. If the algebraic sum of the indexing parameter and the spread is lower than the spread, the interest rate applied cannot in any case be reduced below a minimum contractual rate, equal to the spread. In any case, the rate applied will never be higher than:	D312	EXTENSION INTEREST RATE	6.00%
