WHAT IS FACTORING

Factoring is an agreement under which the Factoring company purchases and/or manages receivables, generally of a commercial nature, due to the Client by a predefined set of debtors with the possibility of obtaining advance payment, in whole or in part, of the consideration for those receivables, or to obtain the assumption of the risk of non-payment due to the debtors' insolvency.

Financial and non-financial services that form factoring also include the assessment of client reliability.

Factoring without recourse

A factoring transaction where the Factoring company takes the risk of failure or partial payment of the assigned debtors solely due to insolvency, within the limits agreed with the Client for each debtor.

The purchase of receivables is notified to the assigned debtors; the Client and the Factoring company may decide not to communicate the assignment to the assigned debtors.

Using this service allows the Client to reduce the internal costs of managing its trade receivables, obtain the guarantee of payment from the Factoring company and have a source of finance.

Client's risks

The Client guarantees the existence, the certainty of the receivables assigned, and therefore the possibility for the Factoring company to collect these receivables at maturity. The Client shall be responsible for any objection from the assigned debtor. The Client takes on the obligations provided for by the factoring agreement. Failure to comply with these obligations will, in principle, result in the loss of the solvency guarantee on receivables provided by the Factoring company and entitle the latter to demand the immediate return of the sums advanced as the consideration for the receivables assigned and not collected yet.

The main risks include what follows:

- possible unfavorable changes in the economic conditions, as contractually provided;
- an increase in the interest rate in connection with the performance of the benchmark, when the transaction is a variable rate transaction;
- the presence in the agreement of a fixed minimum rate (the so-called floor rate), so that if the algebraic sum of the indexing parameter and the spread is lower than this floor rate, the interest rate cannot be lower than this floor rate in any case.

MAXIMUM ECONOMIC CONDITIONS APPLICABLE

| | ITEMS | | COSTS |

| | C303 | ADVANCE NOMINAL INTEREST RATE (TAN) | 6.00% |

| Indexed interest rate on advances The interest rate is determined by the algebraic sum of the reference parameter and the contractually established spread. If the algebraic sum of the indexing parameter and the Spread is lower than the Spread, the interest rate applied may not fall, in any case, below a minimum contractual rate, equal to the Spread. In any case, the rate applied will never be higher than: | C301 | DEFERRED NOMINAL INTEREST RATE (TAN) | 6.00% |

In connection with the requests for documentation relating to specific/individual transactions, the Client is entitled to obtain, at its own expense within 90 days, a copy of the documentation relating to transactions carried out in the past ten years. The Client may be charged only the producing costs of such documentation. The Legend to this Information Sheet describes the most significant items contained in the above table.

Criteria for production and payment of advance payable interest

Interest is calculated in advance in transactions for which the Client and the Factoring company have defined the payment of the consideration of the sale as a discount or discounting back, taking into account the conventional maturity of the receivable or the term contractually agreed for collection of the receivable, when different from the original maturity.

Calculation of interest: divisor 365/366 for transactions in Euro;
divisor 360 for transactions in currencies other than Euro.

Payability of interest: transaction date.

Criteria for production and payment of deferred payable interest

Interest is payable by the Client to the Factoring company because of advances paid by the latter, as well as on charges of the fees, excluding interest, payable by the Client to the Factoring company, if not paid at sight.

Calculation of interest: divisor 365/366 for transactions in Euro;
divisor 360 for transactions in currencies other than Euro.

Frequency of calculation of interest: quarterly and, in any case, at the end of the relationship they are due for.

Payability of interest: at sight.

Interest shall be recorded separately from the principal amount.

Interest shall be payable immediately upon final termination of the factoring relationship.

The MEDIUM GLOBAL ACTUAL RATE (TEGM) provided for by art. 2 of the usury law (Law 108/1996), published by the Ministry of the Economy and Finance on a quarterly basis, relevant to the category "factoring transactions" can be found at the premises and on the website of the Factoring company (www.ubifactor.it).

WITHDRAWAL, RELATIONSHIP TERMINATION, COMPLAINTS AND OUT-OF-COURT DISPUTE SETTLEMENT PROCEDURES

Withdrawal

The Client and the Factoring company may withdraw from the agreement at any time, without penalty and without incurring any closing costs.

If the Factoring company unilaterally amends the contractual conditions, when it is contractually provided and only in case of justified reasons, it shall inform the Client with 2-month notice. The amendment is deemed approved if the Client does not withdraw from the agreement, free of charge, within the starting date of the proposed unilateral amendment.

Maximum relationship termination times

15 days

This period shall begin on the day of payment of the debt in full by the Client.

Complaints and out-of-court dispute settlement procedures

Complaints shall be sent:

- by letter, to be delivered personally to the headquarters of the Factor;
- by registered letter with advice of receipt to the Factor's address (UBI Factor S.p.A. – Ufficio Reclami – Via Cavriana 20 – 20134 Milano);
- by standard email to the following address: reclami@ubifactor.it;
- by certified email to the following address: reclami.ubifactor@pec.intesasanpaolo.com.

The Factoring company must reply to the complaint within 60 days after its receipt.

If the Client is dissatisfied or has received no reply within 60 days, it may address the Banking and Financial Arbitrator (ABF) before appealing to the judge. To find out how to contact the Arbitrator, you may visit www.arbitrobancariofinanziario.it, ask at the Bank of Italy branches, or ask the Factoring company.

The Practical guide that summarizes information on the Banking and Financial Arbitrator and the form to address the Arbitrator can be downloaded from www.arbitrobancariofinanziario.it or the Factoring company website www.ubifactor.it.

The Client and the Factoring company, in connection with the obligation, pursuant to Legislative Decree no. 28 of March 4, 2010 as subsequently amended, to carry out, for the purposes of the out-of-court settlement of disputes in the cases provided for by the law, the mediation procedure before resorting to judicial authorities, may appeal:

- to the Conciliatore BancarioFinanziario - Associazione per la soluzione delle controversie bancarie, finanziarie e societarie - ADR; organismo di conciliazione bancaria, with registered office in Via delle Botteghe Oscure, 54 - 00186 Rome;
- or to another body registered in the appropriate register that is kept by the Ministry of Justice and specialized in banking and finance matters.

The Client is deemed to have complied with the obligation to attempt settlement even if the Client applies to the ABF after submitting a complaint to the Factoring company.

The above without prejudice to the possibility of recourse to the ordinary judicial authority should the attempt at settlement ends without reaching an agreement.

For information on how to contact the Conciliatore BancarioFinanziario, the Client may go to www.conciliatorebancario.it. The Regulations of the Conciliatore BancarioFinanziario are also available at the Factoring company's offices and on the website www.ubifactor.it. The Client may address the Conciliatore BancarioFinanziario even in the absence of a prior complaint.
